

JACK ALLROUND.

"Please tell me how to make orange marmalade. I have a lot of oranges which I think will do for the purpose," writes "Winnie." "Kindly say what sort of oranges should be used for marmalade, and how to make it," writes "A Mother." "I have been sent a case of oranges, and want to make some of them into marmalade, and to cook some as fritters, which I am sure are delicious. Can you help me?" asks "Grace C." The proper sort of oranges to make marmalade are undoubtedly Seville oranges, but excellent household marmalade is often made from ordinary sorts, and one excellent cook makes a capital marmalade with ordinary oranges, adding three lemons to every six of the oranges. I send a very simple recipe, which I know to have been used with success either with Seville or ordinary oranges, but undoubtedly the former was much the superior preserve. Cut up the Seville or other oranges very thin and small, pick out the seeds on a dish as you go along, and to every pound of the thinly sliced fruit add three pints of cold spring water. Allow the fruit and water to stand together for twenty-four hours, after which boil them until the slices are quite tender. The seeds, tied in a muslin bag, should be boiled with the oranges. After boiling let all stand together for some days, when the juice should be squeezed out of the fruit, and the pulp of loaf sugar to each pound of the boiled fruit, then boil sugar and oranges, constantly stirring them or they will surely burn and spoil. Continue the boiling until the chips or peel slices clear and the syrup jellies. The whole should be beautifully clear.

For orange fritters, make a light batter with half a pound of flour, half an ounce of butter, half a saltspoonful of salt, two beaten up eggs, and sufficient milk to bring it to a proper consistency. Have ready a pan of oil, removing as much of the white skin as possible, but do not break the thin skin. Divide the orange into eight parts, carefully avoiding any breakage of the thin skin except where necessary to remove the seeds. Some cooks even have there in, but I do not think it well; other cooks at this stage lay the divided oranges in a basin, sprinkle sifted sugar lightly over them, and over that pour a wineglass of brandy, and let them stand for an hour, but they are very often made without the brandy. If it is used, you must set the pieces of oranges to drain before you dip them in the batter, which should have a thick creamy appearance. Have ready a pan of boiling lard or clarified dripping, dip each piece of orange into the batter, and drop it into the boiling lard and fry to a delicate brown for eight to ten minutes. When done they should be laid out on a piece of blotting paper, before the fire for about five minutes to take off any excess moisture that may cling to them. Then dish on a white napkin or dish paper. Well sprinkle with sifted sugar, and serve at once.

"Kindly give me advice about a black lace skirt which has gone rusty and shabby. How could I restore it?" asks "C. W." and "K. M. P." wants to know "how to stiffen and renovate a black lace dress." The lace should be washed in the first place. To do this, mix some soda water with a little cold water to make it as warm as you can bear to put your hands in it. Add a little more to fill the smell of the gall, which is not nice. In washing you must squeeze the lace between your hands, for it must not be rubbed at all, but drawn through the water, then rinse it well in cold water, and have prepared a bath of cold water with a liberal coloring of the best black ink—in some cases equal proportions of ink and water may be necessary; rinse the lace in this in the same careful manner, squeezing the liquid out between the hands, then hang to dry. Now prepare a stiffening by pouring boiling water on a small piece of the lace when the lace is dry pass it through this, and squeeze out as before; stretch and clap it, to send the stiffening evenly through all. The next proceeding is to pin it out evenly and very straight on a linen cloth to dry. Much care will be required to properly carry out this portion of the work, when it is dry, lay a linen cloth over the iron blanket, and iron the lace on the wrong side.

"Scotch" wishes to know whether fine or coarse oatmeal should be employed for a Scotch oatcake, and how it is made. Coarse Scotch oatmeal is the best to use. Boil the meal a small piece of butter and a little salt, make it into a paste with hot water, then leave it for five minutes to absorb the moisture; now sprinkle the board with oatmeal and roll the paste into a round shape, about the thickness and size of a dinner plate, cut it in four equal pieces, and place it in a hot oven for a word of warning about the making up. Oatmeal swells very much in water, and if you make it too thick at first it will not bind together, but will crack and go to pieces while you are rolling it out. This is why you should make it into a paste at first, and then, when you are rolling, add a little more oatmeal to the roll. This hint, if you bear it in mind, will save much disappointment.

I have to thank "Amateur," who kindly offers to give any of my correspondents advice on bird-stuffing, and asks me to say how to dye grass, gorse, rushes, &c., for putting in stuffed birds. E. J. writes me to tell "how to dye some grasses which have been collected in different parts of the country." You can obtain at the chemists the various aniline dyes dissolved in alcohol, and thus prepared you can obtain almost any colour on grasses. Pour some boiling water into a basin, and add as much of the dye as you wish to obtain the colour you wish. Allow the water to cool a little, and then plunge in the grasses and keep them in until coloured to your taste. For a good violet, use one part aniline violet and one part aniline blue; for red, aniline fuchsin; for scarlet, one part aniline fuchsin and one part aniline red. If the grasses are coloured as above, rinse them in cold water, shake out the water, and hang them to dry in the open air. For a lemon colour the best thing to use is picric acid, dissolved in boiling water, and then thinned with warm water; dip the grasses in as before, but do not drain off the liquid. For a dark green, in two ounces of boiling water mix one ounce of alum and half an ounce of dissolved indigo carmine, plunge the moss or grass into the mixture, shake off the liquid, and dry in an airy shady place, or in the winter by fire heat. If you wish for a light green, add more or less of the indigo carmine to the shade you require to the dark green mixture.

A number of correspondents write to me, treating for recipes to "drive away flies." "M. S. S." says his household is "terribly tormented; even the dogs suffer." In this case very probably it is the flies that are the cause, and if they are the cause, they may you must expect them to be very numerous. In the same way, pigeons kept close to a house are sure to bestow upon the household multitudes of the pests. Another correspondent asks for something that can be put in the bed. He finds the powder he purchases is of no avail, and asks for some chemical preparation or some perfume. A solution of camphor in spirits of wine is sometimes very effective if sprinkled between the sheets; camomile flowers used in the same way often secure a good night's rest to the human being; but you want really to drive the flies away you must carry the war further by placing one or two pieces of new dannel between the blankets; the black invaders have an unbounded partiality for new dannel, and if you lay the traps you will find your enemies on it you look there in the morning, and then of course a wholesale execution will take place, and will be some relief so far as it goes. But there is nothing, except constant cleanliness in every particular, that will thoroughly drive them away. I hope the above will help my other friends who have consulted me on the matter.

In reply to "Tess," I give a recipe for an expensive method of making vanilla ice cream. Take eight eggs and whisk them up well, add to them three pints of milk and one pint of cream, eight drops of vanilla essence, fourteen ounces of sifted sugar, two ounces of butter. Mix the ingredients well together in the boiling pan, and bring the custard to boiling point in the usual way, keeping well stirred from the bottom; when it has thickened strain it through a sieve into the freezer, let it cool, and then proceed to freeze.

At this season you can make raspberry ice cream by putting a pound of raspberry jam through a hair sieve, add to it the juice of one lemon, and mix well with one quart of cream, colour with a little cochineal, and it is ready for the freezer.

I am asked by "A Busy Wife" as to "the best method of washing woollen goods to prevent shrinking and its consequent discomfort. I could have wished my correspondent had particularised what 'goods' she meant, as there are some differences in the procedure; however, for a general rule, woollens, whether they be flannel or merino, should be washed in warm water in which soap has been prepared by a hair sieve, over them, and then shriveled if you attempt to boil or cold water. You must neither scrub the goods nor rub in soap, but just draw them to and fro through the lathered water in this way, wash them quickly, and rinse them out in the same manner, quickly, and by drawing them through clean warm water. You should take proper care to have them dry, and if they are drying to draw them out, &c., to prevent shrinking. Serge is more difficult to treat; it should be passed through quite cold well-lathered water in the washing, which must be rapidly done, afterwards well rinsing in slightly warm water. In all cases, if necessary, rinse twice sooner than allow any of the soap to remain in the fabric.

"M. J. J." would like a recipe for "a good hot Worcestershire sauce." Pound up together half an ounce each of shallots, garlic, and cayenne pepper, then pour a quart of vinegar over them, and stir them up well, and shake them together. In a day or two add a quarter of a pint of Indian soy, and then bottle. Of course, you can increase the amount of cayenne pepper if you wish.

A SCANDALOUS FINE.

A story characteristic of the treatment experienced by the Jews at the hands of the local authorities in Russia comes from Kremenchuk, on the Dnieper. A Jew had a son called Yakov Leib, who died in the Jewish cemetery there. Nine or ten years afterwards the military authorities called on the dead boy to come up for the conscription, and on his failing to do so his father was sentenced to the usual fine of 300 roubles. The father proceeded to appeal, and finally to petition against the sentence, and after the lapse of a year or two sent thus the decision was against him. The court found (from the mistake made by one of the witnesses in regard to the name of the deceased) that the Jew had clearly made out that his son Yakov Leib was dead, but that for the non-appearance of his son in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, whisky, wine, and tobacco, and the question was asked whether they were members or not. It appeared that when the people paid for admission at the door, a ticket, bearing the words "Hon. member for one day," was given to each.—Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, said he had known the club for some time, and it was the report of this, and the fact that the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks, that he was apprehended on Sunday in a court in Well-street, Hackney, by Det. Insp. Leach, G Division, and some in a state of poverty.—Evidence was given by Excise Officers Dickens and Leese that on two evenings in the month of December they went to a place known as the Dnieper Club, Dnieper-street, Hackney-road, and paid for admission, the first time on the 31st, and the second time on the 1st. A first time match was in progress one evening, and there was a considerable crowd in the club. In one room there was a bar fitted up, and behind it the defendant and his wife were serving all who asked for drinks. Mrs. Cull served to witnesses beer, before Sir T. Chambers, Q.C., Recorder, and a jury, a case, Hast v. the Lea Bridge, Leyton, and Westminster Tramway Company, was heard, in which the plaintiff, a commercial traveller, sought to recover £12 for damages to his phaeton. —On the 6th October last plaintiff was driving along the Lea Bridge-road, when one of the hind wheels skidded and caught in a cleft in the road (which the defendant company were bound to keep in repair). The wheel was completely smashed, and the vehicle in which there were four persons sank to the ground. He was unable to use it for a week, and he paid £23 10s. for repairs. He claimed also for hire of cab and keep of his horses during that week for other expenses. —The facts were not disputed, but Mr. Hume Williams, for the defence, argued that there was no case, as the defendant company was incorporated by statute, and this was an action for breach of a statutory duty. They were bound to keep the rails level with the road, and keep the road in good order between the rails, and 18in. on each side, or in default they were liable to pay 45 s. a day, recovered by the road authority. They did not give right of action to private individuals. In the result his lordship held that there was no cause of action, and he non-suited plaintiff with costs. —An application for a case for a High Court was granted.

TRAMWAY COMPANIES AND THE PUBLIC.

A PUBLIC-HOUSE DISPUTE.
At the Surrey Assizes, Huddford, on Feb. 1, before Justice Stephen, an action was brought by David Cadby, of Cambernagh, against Frederick Coucher, late of the Belford Arms, Croydon, for rescission of contract and return of a deposit of £50. The plaintiff alleged that he was induced to sign an agreement for tenancy of the Belford Arms, Croydon, at an estimated level with the road, on deposit of £50 upon the representation the takings were £120 monthly. Those representations, he discovered, were false, and refused to complete the transaction. Defendant denied the alleged representations, but a verdict was found for the plaintiff.

LAMBETH CARLTON CLUB.
The first annual dinner of this flourishing Carlton club since the erection of their and commodious club house was held on the 25th ult. Mr. J. G. Albert, chairman of the committee, president, and an excellent dinner was served in the large hall of the club, which is situated in the Atlantic-road near Brighton Station. Amongst those present were the Marquis of Carmarthen, Mr. A. A. Baumann, M.P., Mr. L. H. Isaacs, M.P., Mr. T. L. Bristowe, M.P., Mr. E. Beresford Hope, John Scott, Esq., Mr. F. B. Beger, James White, W. H. Kilham, Esq., and others. Of the port grandiose proceedings a large number of shares were taken and the club thus placed upon a firm basis. Mr. A. A. Baumann, M.P., in responding to the "South Metropolitan Constitution" complained of the want of solidarity amongst spirit as to the question of the Conservative members of Parliament, and urged them to look after such important matters as the water supply, of trains, and the abolition of the swedish system. It was only by attention to these questions affecting the labour classes they could preserve the preponderance of the liberal party in metropolitan representation. (Cheers). —The dinner was successful.

THE FRAUDS ON LONDON STOCK-BROKERS.
As a result of the judicial inquiry instituted into the circumstances connected with the despatch from Paris to London on the 5th February last of telegrams signed "Camondo," which occasioned the flight of the stock, an outside broker, Mr. Fleishman, a German subject, has been arrested, and has fully admitted to the examining magistrate his complicity in the affair. It is stated that M. Camondo has been compensated for his loss by a lady's relatives, the latter will be a victim of the discovery of the author of the forged telegram was brought about by examining magistrate first devoting his attention to ascertaining who had profited by fraud and then submitting the telegram an expert, together with specimens of writing of certain suspected individuals.

TWO SUICIDES AT NOTTING
Dr. Diplock, coroner, was informed on the 28th ult. that late on the previous afternoon an aged man, named William Henry Hill, was discovered lying dead, having committed suicide by hanging himself from the rafters of a room, where he deceased had been very long-spirited, and spoken of being tired of life. The coroner was also informed of the death of Thomas Harris, a labourer, 60, of Kenning place, Notting Hill, who was found in a room with his throat cut. The poor fellow had been much depressed during the foggy weather.

The report published by some papers that the Pope had a fainting fit is not true. Holiness has resumed his customary vigils of the last night.

The negotiation relating to the sale of the Turkish Duesse Levi has been abruptly conclusion, and M. Lamartine, representative of Messrs. R. Mehlid, h Constantinople.

The banking house of Dominicus, carrying on business at 10, Bedford in London, has failed, bringing ruin upon all dependent farmers for ten miles round.

The Right Rev. Dr. Magee, Archbishop of New York, is at present on a visit to W. His grace, who is accompanied by his wife, apparently in excellent health.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

MADNESS.
Have you or your friends been using any of the Wonderful Ointment or LIGHT SOAP? It will save you and be a real pleasure for you. How clothes can be cleaned without necessity of scrubbing and scouring, and how a single drop of dirt drops right out of the skin, and the second day is left.

WIVES.
Try SUNLIGHT SOAP for your

MOTHERS.
Don't be persuaded one way or the other. The Sunlight Soap is the only one that will save you.

MANKS.
See that you get what you want. The word "Sunlight" is on every label and printed wrapper.

BEWARE.

A NEW.
Do not allow other soaps, and make the SUNLIGHT SOAP, as it is the only one that will save you. If you must expect to be disappointed.

DEPARTURES.
See that you get what you want. The word "Sunlight" is on every label and printed wrapper.

This is the only one that will save you.

Test of Value.

STARTLING EVIDENCE OF A NURSE

[illegible]

WHOLESALE PROSECUTION OF MINERS.

At Houghton-le-Spring Police Court, Thursday, 414 miners employed at Lord Dunsley, Houghton Colliery, were each summoned for damages for breach of contract having laid the pit idle on the 23rd February owing to the eruptions at Silksworth. — Mr. Cooper, solicitor to the Coalowners' Association, prosecuted, and Mr. Scott Fox, barrister, defended.—The magistrates held claims to be proved, and the defendants were ordered to pay the damages sought and costs within 14 days.—The men intend to appeal against the decision.

It is reported that the Admiralty contemplate reducing the staff at the home depots and harbour ships, in order to release a larger number of men for service in effect ships.

AGRICULTURAL HALL.

According to the coroner, the man was struck from behind, having, singularly enough, been coming to the medical evidence, escape outward injury. There was no evidence shown how the lift came to move, but the coroner stated that the rod was pulled from his hand.—Some discussion ensued as to the working of the lift, while the relatives of the deceased alleged was properly carried out, the lighting also being defective.—The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, and added that the should be better lighted.

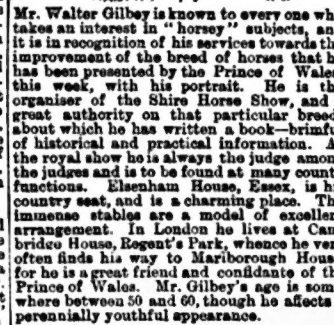

A New York telegram states that Mr. T. O'Connor, who is leaving for Europe, in response to questions touching the recent mission to the Irish delegates to the States, answered that he was as well satisfied with the result as a man could be who had made a complete failure, adding that the prospects of Irish cause were very dismal.

she suffered from ill-health, and while under the water jug at her hand struck her head so that she once had to leave the protection of her servants. When they were living in Oxfordshire they became acquainted with a family named Waterhouse. There were three daughters. The young lady visited at their house. The respondent treated them most kindly, and she had several nurse them. She remonstrated with his on his conduct, but he simply told her she please himself. After that he was at night, and after that he was in August, but they went to Bristol, and he had to be attended by a doctor.
There was a meeting of the deacons of the seminant's chapel with regard to the alle-

MITCHELL AND SLAVIN AT BOW-STREET.

Charles Mitchell and Frank Slavin, two well-known pugilists, were summoned before Mr. Vaughan, at Bow-street, charged with wilful damage at 117, Gower-street. Prior to the case being called on, Mr. Bernard Abraham stated that on behalf of the defendants the matter had been amicably settled, and requested the magistrate's permission to withdraw the summons, the defendants undertaking to keep away from complainant. On Mr. W. E. Windsor, who appeared in support of the summons, confirmed the arrangement, and Mr. Vaughan consented to the withdrawal of the summons.

ANOTHER MURDER IN PARIS.—Villeneuve, a suburb of Paris, is situated in the Canton of Vincennes, has the theatre of another crime. The 3 morning, at six o'clock, an old man named Huot, was found lifeless in his bed with his skull smashed in. A neighbour heard groans proceeding from the room occupied by the victim, and at once informed the landlady of the house, who went up and found him lying on his back. A young man at the door. The police were sent for. The hammer with which the deed had been accomplished was picked near Huot's bed. The gold watch of the deceased was missing, but a small sum of money remained untouched in the drawer of the table, wherein it had been placed, as if the murderer or thieves had been interrupted while plundering the room. The money was part of a most allowance which Huot had received from his children. In the case of the elderly Madame Dagomet, who was brutally assassinated in her bed near Poissy, her grand-daughter was held down and smothered, as recorded some days ago. The arrest had been made. The little girl, Julia, who has now recovered from her terror, being unable to give any information, would serve to put the police on the track of the murderers of her aged relative, suspicion fastened on a man of shady character who used to visit Madame Dagomet. This person is being sent to Versailles for a criminal examination. The number of crimes like that of Villeneuve at Thiverval is enough to cause considerable trepidation among the dwellers in the suburbs.

"Sir, - After suffering for years from ulcerations produced by plugged veins, my legs, having entirely, measuring the inches round, and gradually dark purple colour, approaching black, during the day for seven weeks treated by Guy's Hospital was cured. Afterwards tried several private doctors same result. I then decided to try the Grasshopper the effect of which is that I am now as well as I ever was. I am certain if I could not afford that I should not now be in my bed, suffering."

— GEORGE ADAMS, Market Cross

"THE PEOPLE" MIXTURE.

Lord Rosebery has arrived in Rome. He is commencing the cultivation of tobacco.

Nearly everything that a man likes to do is bad for him.

A bill for ice may be cool, but it is not always collected.

A good salary is about the last thing an artist learns to draw.

Mr. Bradlaugh's apothecary book "Labour and Law," will be published in a month.

It takes a smart boy to be successful. If he lies unsuccessfully his father makes him smart.

Of every 1,000,000 people in the world 800 are blind, and the other 999,200 cannot see their own faults.

Mr. Gladstone has promised to deliver a lecture on Homer, at Eton, on Saturday, the 14th of March.

There were 720 patients under treatment at the Royal Hospital in Fitch-street, Soho-square, during February.

How much more pleasant is it to get a letter, containing a remittance than a notice requesting you to remit.

It is said that the Indians most rapidly becoming extinct are the Crows. They may be said to be a lost cause.

There is a woman in Austria aged 114. She proves it by means of a faded love-letter dated just 90 years ago.

Baby-carriage have been pronounced a necessity by a medical judge. Just so. A painful necessity, some people think.

Nobody has faith enough in human integrity to believe that the man who guesses a conundrum has never heard it before.

It has been probably the driest February on record every-where within the east, central, and southern portions of the British Isles.

There was not last week in any of the twenty-eight great towns of England and Wales a single death from small-pox.

Major Bull, whose assassination was attempted a few days ago at Kheni, is a son of Sir William Bull, the principal of Edinburgh University.

Germany, equally with other populous countries, is showing an advance in the population of towns far beyond that of the country as a whole.

The Prince of Wales has consented to preside at a festival dinner on behalf of the Eastern Counties Asylum for Idiots, Colchester, which will be held on April 21th.

A young woman in Tennessee county, Michigan, who had obtained $1,000 in a breach of promise suit, has rewarded her chief witness by marrying him.

The New York Actors' Fund has benefited 2,500 indigent members of the dramatic profession during the past nine years, and has expended $125,000 in charity.

A French doctor points out that a red nose is not necessarily a drunkenness. Nevertheless, it implies an ill-luckless possessor of the burden of proof.

A young Polish countess has just obtained the degree of M.D. at the University of Geneva. She intends practicing in Poland. She is the Countess Wladislaw von Szwankowska.

Julius Cesar has been sent to San Quentin (California) Prison by a United States District Court Judge. The prisoner was a negro who had received the name at his baptism.

King Kalakaua, the day before he died, spoke in his native tongue a message to the Hawaiian into the receiver of an Edison phonograph. This has been taken to Honolulu.

The census returns in Rangon roughly show that the population within the municipal boundaries and cantonments is 180,000, or an increase of 47,000 over the returns of the last census.

Over 5,000 people got in the way of various vehicles during the past year in London. Whether they were studying the laws of physical force is not known—but they all got run over.

"Molestation," says a New York exchange, "had an abiding hatred for Americans." Nevertheless, the great painter was not averse to the "slightly dollar" of transatlantic art patrons.

The body of the Rev. Bailey Hill, a coloured preacher, who had been missing for several days, was found in a mill pond near Atlanta, Georgia. He had been murdered, and white men are suspected of the crime.

A case presented to Benjamin Franklin when he was in France, and a clock that belonged to Louis Philippe when he taught in a school in London, were taken to Boston for exhibition in a local curiosity shop.

Corporal Ginn, of the 17th Lancers, committed suicide in one of the stores at Shorncliffe Camp by shooting himself with a Martini-Heery carbine. He had served twenty-four years in the regiment.

Lord Randolph Churchill's travelling companion in his forthcoming visit to South Africa will be his brother-in-law, Mr. Morison Freeman. They will be accompanied by a regularly organised escort, including a doctor.

At the last sitting of the tribunal over which Commissioner Kerr presides he "beat the record" in the brevity of his summing-up to the jury, his oration consisting solely of four simple words, "Gentlemen, consider your verdict."

Mrs. Besant has given practical proof of her zeal for Theosophy by placing her house in St. John's Wood, at the disposal of Madame Blavatsky and other Theosophist members, who gather there to study the intricate doctrines of the belief.

A prominent figure in the lobby the other evening was Mr. Warton, member for Bradford from 1880 to 1885, and familiarly known as "Champion Blocker." His withdrawal from Parliament, on being appointed Attorney-General to Western Australia in 1880, and retired, on a pension, when that colony obtained responsible government.

Mr. Frank Green, of Upper Thames-street, having received a requisition by all the Common Council and most of the leading inhabitants of the Ward of Vintry, has decided to offer himself for the aldermanic vacancy, and as his return is certain, other prospective candidates have relinquished the idea of a contest. Mr. Green has been for some time the deputy-alderman of the ward.

The ups and downs of politics are very strange. Two years ago Mr. Patchitch was an outlaw from Serbia; he was, indeed, under sentence of death. To-day Mr. Patchitch is Prime Minister of Serbia, while Mr. Garachanin, the Premier who outlawed him, is now a prisoner in the hands of his captor.

Mail advices from Geneva, per the Cunard steamer Cephalonia, give out hopes of safety of the Hissler, the "Oneida," which sailed about 100 days ago from New London, N. H., for France. It is conjectured that the craft has been lost in a December cyclone, together with her crew of six hands, in addition to the captain's wife and niece, who were on the little craft, endeavouring to save the Hissler from the ice.

The directors of the Naval Construction and Ship-building Company have practically abandoned all hope of hearing of the lifeboat, which sailed from New London with provisions to last her occupants only thirty-five days. The food which they had on board was, however, made to last for some time, while her coal was only just sufficient to last to the Azores. She barely avoiding any change in Paris or interruption of these through services.

There were last week ten cases of suicide in London.

There were 2,626 births and 2,402 deaths in London last week.

There were nearly seventy inquests held in the metropolis last week.

Fifty-five deaths in London last week were attributable to accident or negligence.

The American publishers of Whittier's poems always reckon on a sale of over 50,000 every year.

The Guelph Exhibition will in future not close on Tuesdays and Thursdays until 10.0 p.m.

Mr. Chamberlain will address a Liberal Unionist meeting at Portsmouth on the 22nd of April.

King Leopold of Belgium is an indefatigable walker, and has an invincible objection to wearing gloves.

President Diaz, of Mexico, has given an emphatic denial to the statement that he contemplated leaving the country.

Somebody with plenty of leisure time has figured it out that one journal is published for every 55,100 individuals in the world.

The National Australian Federation Convention was opened on Tuesday at Sydney. Sir H. Parkes was appointed president.

The Marchioness of Ely has consented to become a patroness of the Home of Rest for Horses, which is situated at Friars Place Farm, Acton.

Mr. John Wilson private secretary to Mr. Chamberlain, has been appointed secretary to the royal commission to inquire into coal-dust in mines.

A "pusher" is a cocktail taken before dinner, and a "chaser" is a glass of brandy after it. This is the latest slang from American toperdom.

There is gnashing of gums amongst toothless people in America. Artificial molars come out at their former price under the McKinley tariff.

Despite all statements to the contrary, it is no longer true that the Assisted Education Bill has been drafted, and will be introduced immediately after Easter.

There were 24 deaths from measles in London last week, 11 from scarlet fever, 32 from diphtheria, 62 from whooping-cough, 6 from enteric fever, and 19 from diarrhoea and dysentery.

The Americans are growing sensitive. Two newspaper reporters in Boston have been fined fifty dollars each for incorporating with their reports of a trial "comments tending to prejudice the minds of the jury."

Amongst the many British artists who will be represented at the Berlin Exhibition are Sir Frederick Leighton, Sir John Millais, Messrs. Watts, Alma-Tadema, (Charles, Edward, H. Moore), Maron Stone, Collier, Walter Crane, Gilbert, and Wimperis.

An eminent German scholar intends to attempt to rehabilitate Shakespeare's geography. This gentleman undertakes to prove that the reference in "A Winter's Tale" to an impossible "coast of Bohemia," is a misreading for the "coast of Lithuania."

Two labourers named Wilson and Emery were fighting in Sheffield, when the latter fired out a pocket-knife and stabbed Wilson, the blade entering the fleshy part of a rib on the left side close to the region of the heart. Wilson lies in a serious condition.

Great interest attaches to the constitution of the committee on the water bills affecting the metropolis, which are now before the House of Commons. Two of its members are to be appointed by the House itself, and one of them, it is said, may be Mr. Chamberlain.

"I love England," declared the Canadian Liberal leader, Mr. Laurier, "because such is the mother of freedom; but much as I love England, I love Canada more, and if ever a day should come when their interests clash, my first consideration will be Canada."

Pope Leo XIII. celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of his accession to the Papacy on Tuesday. As he was carried through the halls of the Vatican in the sedia gestatoria, his holiness was warmly cheered by a large number of people who had been invited to assist at the ceremony.

A plague of rats has recently manifested itself at Methold, and adjoining parishes in Norfolk, and on some farms the depredations have been very extensive. One farm alone 7,500 rats have been killed since October last, and the work of destruction is still going on. For this slaughter the farmer has paid 23s. 6d.

The fact that Mr. Gladstone dined at the House of Commons on Tuesday night is regarded as an evidence of the deep interest taken by him in the one man one vote question. The right hon. gentleman so seldom puts in an appearance in either dining room that his presence there becomes a subject for comment.

Why it should be considered unjustifiable for French painters to exhibit in Berlin, whilst they have repeatedly done so in Munich, and it is looked on as an unpardonable insult to French dramatists and musicians to have their works performed in Germany, is a question which is just now puzzling many artists on the other side of the Channel.

The Spanish Government has decided to ask Parliament to put off the date of the municipal elections, which were to have taken place in the whole kingdom early in 1891. This decision has been taken because the authorities in many provinces have reported that Socialist Anarchists and trade unions are already actively preparing demonstrations for May Day.

Queen Christina, with the little king standing beside her, opened the session of the Spanish Cortes. The speech from the throne alluded to the denunciation of treaties of commerce with foreign countries, in order that Spain might be better able to protect her own products and industries. The chief object of the Government, her Majesty said, would be to reduce expenditure without increasing taxation.

Early on Wednesday morning a fire broke out in a building in Leadenhall-street, let out as offices by Mr. W. F. S. Kae, and tenanted on the ground floor by Mr. A. G. Hawes, tailor. It originated on the fourth floor. The engines from Shoreditch, Hackney, Bethnal Green, Mile End, Commercial-road East, and others were sent on the spot. The fire, however, raged fiercely, the entire upper floors became thoroughly ignited, and at length the flames burst through the roof and threw a light which illuminated the whole of the City. A large tea warehouse in Cree Church Buildings caught at the same time, and great bursts of flames issued from the roof. Considerable damage was done.

Mail advices from Geneva, per the Cunard steamer Cephalonia, give out hopes of safety of the Hissler, the "Oneida," which sailed about 100 days ago from New London, N. H., for France. It is conjectured that the craft has been lost in a December cyclone, together with her crew of six hands, in addition to the captain's wife and niece, who were on the little craft, endeavouring to save the Hissler from the ice.

The directors of the Naval Construction and Ship-building Company have practically abandoned all hope of hearing of the lifeboat, which sailed from New London with provisions to last her occupants only thirty-five days. The food which they had on board was, however, made to last for some time, while her coal was only just sufficient to last to the Azores. She barely avoiding any change in Paris or interruption of these through services.

There were last week ten cases of suicide in London.

There were 2,626 births and 2,402 deaths in London last week.

There were nearly seventy inquests held in the metropolis last week.

Fifty-five deaths in London last week were attributable to accident or negligence.

The American publishers of Whittier's poems always reckon on a sale of over 50,000 every year.

The Guelph Exhibition will in future not close on Tuesdays and Thursdays until 10.0 p.m.

Mr. Chamberlain will address a Liberal Unionist meeting at Portsmouth on the 22nd of April.

King Leopold of Belgium is an indefatigable walker, and has an invincible objection to wearing gloves.

President Diaz, of Mexico, has given an emphatic denial to the statement that he contemplated leaving the country.

Somebody with plenty of leisure time has figured it out that one journal is published for every 55,100 individuals in the world.

The National Australian Federation Convention was opened on Tuesday at Sydney. Sir H. Parkes was appointed president.

The Marchioness of Ely has consented to become a patroness of the Home of Rest for Horses, which is situated at Friars Place Farm, Acton.

Mr. John Wilson private secretary to Mr. Chamberlain, has been appointed secretary to the royal commission to inquire into coal-dust in mines.

A "pusher" is a cocktail taken before dinner, and a "chaser" is a glass of brandy after it. This is the latest slang from American toperdom.

There is gnashing of gums amongst toothless people in America. Artificial molars come out at their former price under the McKinley tariff.

Despite all statements to the contrary, it is no longer true that the Assisted Education Bill has been drafted, and will be introduced immediately after Easter.

There were 24 deaths from measles in London last week, 11 from scarlet fever, 32 from diphtheria, 62 from whooping-cough, 6 from enteric fever, and 19 from diarrhoea and dysentery.

The Americans are growing sensitive. Two newspaper reporters in Boston have been fined fifty dollars each for incorporating with their reports of a trial "comments tending to prejudice the minds of the jury."

Amongst the many British artists who will be represented at the Berlin Exhibition are Sir Frederick Leighton, Sir John Millais, Messrs. Watts, Alma-Tadema, (Charles, Edward, H. Moore), Maron Stone, Collier, Walter Crane, Gilbert, and Wimperis.

An eminent German scholar intends to attempt to rehabilitate Shakespeare's geography. This gentleman undertakes to prove that the reference in "A Winter's Tale" to an impossible "coast of Bohemia," is a misreading for the "coast of Lithuania."

Two labourers named Wilson and Emery were fighting in Sheffield, when the latter fired out a pocket-knife and stabbed Wilson, the blade entering the fleshy part of a rib on the left side close to the region of the heart. Wilson lies in a serious condition.

Great interest attaches to the constitution of the committee on the water bills affecting the metropolis, which are now before the House of Commons. Two of its members are to be appointed by the House itself, and one of them, it is said, may be Mr. Chamberlain.

measured 86ft. over all, 12½ft. beam, and draught 6ft. 4½in.

There are 14,036,750 horses reported on farms in the United States.

There are reported to be 16,019,531 milch cows in the United States.

The personal estate of Cardinal Newman has been sworn at £2,574,10s. 6d.

St. Leonards was actually favoured with 168 hours of sunshine during the last fortnight.

The Sultan of Turkey is able to read Heine, whose poetry deeply interests him, in the original.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that Cardinal Manning is godfather to Mr. W. H. Gladstone, who is named "Henry" after him.

There is a good deal of influenza prevailing in Paris. It is, however, not attended with the same serious symptoms as the outbreak of last year.

It is probable that the Easter holidays of our legislators will begin on Tuesday, the 24th inst., and terminate on the following Thursday week.

The Nebraska House of Representatives has passed bills to make two cents per mile the maximum passenger rate to be charged by railways.

Mrs. Maybrick, who looks remarkably well, has expressed to her mother, the Baroness von Kocke, her gratitude for the treatment she has received at Woking.

The Lord Mayor will preside at the second festival dinner in aid of the Teachers' Benevolent and Orphan Funds, to be held at the Holborn Restaurant on May 8th.

At the Chicago World's Fair those who like the pe-time will be dropped from a height of 1,000 feet into a vat of water. There are men who would not mind the drop if there was whisky in it.

Buffalo can boast a real live descendant of Bishop Doane, who was burned at the stake in the reign of Queen Mary. The latter shows no inclination to end his days in such a warm climate.

"American engineers," says Invention, "report that Niagara Falls are receding westwards at the rate of 2½ in. per annum." People who have not yet visited the falls had better hurry.

At an essentially attended meeting held at Fortnash, it was resolved to establish a Soldiers' Institute for the use of the military when on duty. Lord St. Oswald was elected president, and promised a handsome donation to the funds.

The widow of a man who was killed at St. Helens Railway Station about a fortnight ago has received £1,000 from the railway company as compensation for the loss of her husband.

A copy of that paper on his person at the time of the accident.

At North Tipperary Assizes, held at Nenagh, Patrick Donnelly, was tried for the murder of John O'Connell, a well-known labourer, on December 10th last. The prisoner was found guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced to ten years' penal servitude.

A deposition sworn on the Home Secretary to complain that the mat-making industry was prejudiced by the making of mats by prisoners. Mr. Matthew promised to consider all the facts laid before him to see whether there was a grievance requiring to be remedied.

Frank H. Lawrence was, at the Woolwich Police Court, charged, on the production of the Post Office authorities, with stealing a letter containing dividend warrants to the amount of upwards of £270. Official evidence having been given in support of the charge, the prisoner was remanded.

"A place shall be reserved in the Grant Mausoleum for you," said the chairman of the Grant Memorial to General Sherman, who responded, "Sherman, never decidedly. 'No Mausoleum for me. I want no such thing. When I die give me a grave and a few tombstones, that's all.'"

Here in a sentence is Mr. Bull's opinion of the Mines (Eight Hours) Bill:—"That it is not desirable that the hours of labour to be worked by adults in mines should be fixed by Parliament. The members of the House should move an amendment to this effect on the second reading of the bill."

Lord Northbrook took the chair at the lecture on the "Antiquity of Oriental Literature," which Professor Max Muller gave in the theatre of the University of London, this being the first of the series which has been arranged by the Royal Asiatic Society.

There is some possibility that there may be founded in London an artistic society corresponding in a measure to the Société des Vingt. It would resemble that body, providing each member of it with adequate wall-space wherein he might group his contributions to his own liking.

A jury in a court at Mexico, Mo., brought in such an outrageous verdict that the judge dismissed them in this humiliating fashion:—"It is the sentence of this court that the sheriff conduct you to the rear door of the court-house and allow you to depart, as your services will not be again required during my term of office."

This is a story of a tragedy in Rowan county, Kentucky, of the murder of a man named Dial Wells, and did not vacate promptly when requested. Wells went to erect him, and in a quarrel, stabbed him. Middleton's wife then ran out, and seeing Wells, held him while her husband got his shotgun and fired its contents into the unfortunate man.

Great sensation was caused at the Palais de Justice, Paris, on an attempt at suicide by a prisoner named Ennel, while being interrogated by M. Wendling, the examining magistrate. While the attention of the magistrate was drawn to the other side of the room, Ennel attached a handkerchief to the ceiling and stabbed himself six times with it in the left side. His wounds, though serious, are not likely to prove mortal.

A discussion on the housing of the poor in rural districts took place at the National Liberal Club, delegates from various societies being present. Facts having been adduced as to the shocking cases of overcrowding, a resolution was adopted declaring that the condition of the dwellings of labourers in many rural districts was disgraceful, and that the local authority should have power to insist on the provision of healthy cottages with good water supply.

The American Congress has passed the Copyright Bill. President Harrison signed the measure on Wednesday. The new law is not regarded by the supporters of the bill as an ideal one, but is considered generally as a step in the right direction. One of its most unsatisfactory provisions is that copyrighted books must be manufactured in America. This is likened by a New York writer to the prohibition of foreign-born immigrants in the States to furnish themselves with clothing of American manufacture.

A meeting of watch manufacturers has been held at the London Chamber of Commerce to consider how watches having patent rights in the movement should be marked so as to establish a recognised custom of the trade. It was resolved that as no marking of watch movements composed of English and foreign materials would accurately describe the proportions, manufacturers should exercise their own judgment in conforming to the Merchandise Marks Act. It was also decided that the watch trade section of the London Chamber of Commerce be requested to consider the obligations of the trade under this Act.

Honesty is at a premium. That's why they call it the best policy.

To faint dead away at a Turkish bath is to be clean, gone, at any rate.

Heavy snowstorms have raged in Germany during the past week.

The death is announced of Sir W. Kirby Green, the British Minister Morocco.

Again we have to report that last week in London there were thirteen infants suffocated in bed.

The death is announced of Mr. J. D. Dougall, author of "Scottish Field Sports," and other sporting books, in his 73rd year.

In the United States there are 2,000 miles of electric lines—so, at least, Sir Benjamin Barrow asserts.

Wet tobacco is recommended as a remedy for wasp or bee stings. It is, perhaps, not strange that a "quid" should be a "sovereign remedy."

Which is the better plan of conversation—the masculine way of each man talking about himself, or the feminine way of both women talking about some other woman?

La Grippe is again raging in America, and the clerk who appeared late at his office with bleared eyes, a hesitating manner, and an enlarged head, is happy once again.

Sandblast is now being used by wine dealers for the purpose of giving an appearance of age to dark-coloured bottles. Hitherto cobwebs and dirt have been de rigueur.

A bill has been favourably reported to the Senate of Pennsylvania which raises the impost on cigars from 25 to 30 per cent, and on cigarettes to persons under 16 years of age.

It is stated by a French scientist that the sense of smell is twice as strong in men as in women. Many men whose wives sit up for them will be inclined to dispute the point.

Sarah Bernhardt is not being lionised in New York this time, which is so much the better for Sarah. Receptions for her are not the things that one grows fat upon.

Mrs. Martha J. Lamb, the American lady historian, is essentially a "society" woman. She belongs to about twenty-five of them, literary, historical, and scientific.

Swedish matches, made at Jonkoping, are said to return 90 per cent to their manufacturers. That is the sort of article to light up the face of an investor.

There is a burglar in Newark, U.S.A., who displays much originality of method. After robbing a house recently he eluded threatened pursuit by taking away the clothing of the householder.

It has been prophesied that in ten years' time there will be more camphor trees than orange trees in Florida, and that the camphor-producing industry in that State will become of great importance.

Liverpool will, after all, obtain Holman Hunt's "The Triumph of the Innocents." The trustees of the picture have refused to sell it, but the council has voted £1,000, and £1,750 has been raised by subscription.

A lynching party in Colorado managed to hang their man, but discovered too late that they did not understand the facts of the case, and that the lynched man, instead of being a thief, was, in fact, protecting property from a thief.

As the German Emperor was out walking in Berlin in young man, named Sauer, presented a petition to his Majesty. He was immediately arrested, but later in the day was set at liberty. The petition related to a complicated lawsuit.

There are more divorces annually granted in the United States than in all the rest of the Christian world put together. There were over 7,000 divorces granted in 1889, and 12,000 in 1890. In all Christian Europe and the rest of America besides.

The German Emperor has accepted Mr. Sydney Hodges' offer of his portrait of the late Dr. Schliemann for the Ethnological Museum at Berlin. The portrait was painted from sittings given by the great excavator when in England.

Attention is drawn in the Paris Figaro to the unpardonable taste of the painters who protested against taking part in the Berlin Exhibition are now exhibiting at Stuttgart, where also many celebrated French artists have pictures.

Intending emigrants to the southern provinces of Brazil, to which free passages have been advertised, are warned that trustworthy information has been received that a telegraph wire has been cut in the province of San Paulo is not suitable for British emigrants.

In South Carolina the percentage of the negro population is 60, in Mississippi 57.5, in Louisiana 51.4, in Alabama 47.5, in Florida 47.1, in Georgia 47.0, in Virginia 41.7, and in North Carolina 37.9. In these eight States the first census showed a white population of 1,966,711, and a coloured population of but 434,395; while the census of 1890 revealed a white population of 4,895,233, and a coloured population of 1,353,997.

The hotel-keepers and villa owners of Monte Carlo are rejoicing at the arrival of half a dozen millionaires in the town. Baron Arthur Rothschild arrived a few days ago in his yacht, the Eros, his landing being witnessed by another millionaire, Baron Hirsch, the friend of the Prince of Wales. The famous Paris banker, Baron Edouard de Selves, staying at the Hotel Metropole, and Berlin financier, also a Baron and a millionaire, is at the Grand Hotel.

The receipts on account of revenue from the lot of April, when there was a balance of £2,220,281, to the 28th of February, were £24,567,558, against £20,425,435 in the corresponding period of the preceding financial year. The deficit with which the Government was faced was £4,142,123.

The net expenditure was £7,145,013, against £7,524,884 to the same date in the previous year. The Treasury balances on the 28th of February amounted to £3,334,520, and at the same date last year to £6,796,749.

The discussion as to the religious opinions of the late General Sherman has been set at rest. This is the statement of his son, the Jesuit priest, "My father was baptised in the Catholic Church, married in the Catholic Church, and he attended the Catholic Church till the outbreak of the civil war. Since that time my father had not been a communicant, but he always said to me, 'If there is any true religion it is the Catholic religion.' General Sherman, before his death, received absolution and extreme unction."

TURF, FIELD AND RIVER.

By LARRY LYNX.

Nothing has in these days so degenerated racing than it has become as much a business as stock exchange transactions, to the detriment of pure sport. Men go hurrying and hurrying to the races, not to enjoy the sport, but to make a few shillings out of it. The first thing that strikes the eye is the sight of the paddock, where the horses are being exercised, and the sight of the grandstand, where the spectators are gathered. The race is then run, and the winner is declared. The race is then over, and the spectators are dispersed. The race is then over, and the spectators are dispersed.

Thirty years have elapsed since the National Hunt inaugurated their first steeplechase at Market Harborough, and great changes have taken place in cross country sport. The past deed of such flyers over country as Empress, Shamrock, and others, has been forgotten, and last season, when Innisfail, at Boscage in Scotland, won this once famous event, only four starters faced the flag. Despite the fact that Monday racing is now an unmitigated nuisance, and considerably interferes with the transaction of business, the day of the week that few could resist the temptation of revisiting the stretch of racing green sward, by Thames side, where, in days gone by, my Lord Verisopht, Sir Mulberry Hawk, the gentleman who brought rouge et noir from Paris, and their compeers were wont to assemble.

It was a typical March day, for the wind blew freely, and the sun shone brightly over the regenerated turf. Fields, too, were of good strength—in fact, much better than one could have expected in these times of degenerate steeplechasing. The National Hunt steeplechase was a large field, and the race was a very good one. The winner was Innisfail, who ran a very good race, and was well supported by the other horses.

Captain Owen, who is still suffering from the effects of his accident at Sandown Park, was unable to ride the Northern-trained chaser, and in his absence Mr. J. McKie had the mount. In all, seventeen runners faced Mr. Arthur Coventry, and a pretty sharp race was the result. The winner was Innisfail, who ran a very good race, and was well supported by the other horses.

The past has been a terribly busy football week, the fitting climax thereto being the Rugby international match at Richmond, the first between England and Scotland played in London for seven years. The result was a memorable match, in which the dispute regarding knocking back occurred.

The match at Richmond last Monday, in which Preston North End and the Corinthians were the contestants, whilst not so brilliant an exposition of the dribbling code as have been some of the previous games between these teams, was yet interesting and exciting as any that has been played.

Neither Corinthians nor Preston North End were up to their full strength, and it was curious to see that grand full-back, N. J. Ross, play inside right for the first time. The result was a very good one, and the Corinthians showed both speed and cleverness, and there is no shadow of a doubt that Nick is a thoroughly sound all-round player.

Speaking of the Oxford and Cambridge Association match, I may remark that it once more demonstrated how difficult it is to foretell the result of matches between the "Varsities," and to a somewhat lesser extent the same remark applies to the Rugby match on Tuesday. In both cases, Cambridge appeared to have the stronger team, yet in the Rugby instance were the Light Blues successful. They lost the Association match, where their superiority was assumed to be of a very decided character, and could only draw the other, where their backs were expected to outplay the opposing backs.

From the spectators' point of view both matches were disappointing, although there could be no gainsaying the keenness of the rivalry between the two teams. The Rugby match was a very good one, and the Corinthians showed both speed and cleverness, and there is no shadow of a doubt that Nick is a thoroughly sound all-round player.

Grand National outsider, who created a very favourable impression by his performance over country.

It was most unfortunate, owing to circumstances, which were unaccountable, that the day of the Grand National meeting clashed with the last day of the Hunt. Still, notwithstanding, some capital sport was witnessed at Gaudy. Winners, however, were hard to find. Bayleaf landed odds on her in the Maiden Hunters' steeplechase, and Pegasus, on whom 4 to 1 was offered, won the race. A really good class field turned out for the Maresfield Steeplechase, for which Willie Blair, Lown, and old Gamcock were best backed. The latter, despite his heavy penalty, cut out the work season as they had settled down, and in the end he was the winner, leaving Cool with a clear lead, from which he was afterwards never dispossessed, eventually winning in comfortable fashion from Lown and Leap Year.

Queen's Herald was deemed good business for the Selmer open hurdle race, that fell and got up. Mr. Moncrieff, a nasty chaser, leaving Garrett to win easily from Pertinax and Easterdale, the latter of whom was disqualified, because his jockey, Mitchell, did not return to weigh in. Odds were bet on Cromartie for the Open Maiden Hurdle Race, but in the end he was the winner, leaving Cool with a clear lead, from which he was afterwards never dispossessed, eventually winning in comfortable fashion from Lown and Leap Year.

It was a case of small fields on the second day at Leicester, and one event, the Wighton Hunters' Selling Steeplechase, resulted in a very good race. The winner was Innisfail, who ran a very good race, and was well supported by the other horses.

At the time of writing Come Away is a very hot favourite for the Grand National, and the Irish division are very sanguine regarding this horse's chance. It is a very good horse, and is well supported by the other horses.

The match at Richmond last Monday, in which Preston North End and the Corinthians were the contestants, whilst not so brilliant an exposition of the dribbling code as have been some of the previous games between these teams, was yet interesting and exciting as any that has been played.

The match at Richmond last Monday, in which Preston North End and the Corinthians were the contestants, whilst not so brilliant an exposition of the dribbling code as have been some of the previous games between these teams, was yet interesting and exciting as any that has been played.

Neither Corinthians nor Preston North End were up to their full strength, and it was curious to see that grand full-back, N. J. Ross, play inside right for the first time. The result was a very good one, and the Corinthians showed both speed and cleverness, and there is no shadow of a doubt that Nick is a thoroughly sound all-round player.

Speaking of the Oxford and Cambridge Association match, I may remark that it once more demonstrated how difficult it is to foretell the result of matches between the "Varsities," and to a somewhat lesser extent the same remark applies to the Rugby match on Tuesday. In both cases, Cambridge appeared to have the stronger team, yet in the Rugby instance were the Light Blues successful.

From the spectators' point of view both matches were disappointing, although there could be no gainsaying the keenness of the rivalry between the two teams. The Rugby match was a very good one, and the Corinthians showed both speed and cleverness, and there is no shadow of a doubt that Nick is a thoroughly sound all-round player.

Once more representatives of the two Universities did battle on Tuesday at the same venue with fifteen a side. Yet to other than extreme partisans the play could not be called interesting. The game was one long series of scrummages, and it was simply a question of which team was the best at scrummaging.

completely hemmed in in the corner of his own goal line. Aston made one grand run in the second half that was the sensation of the day. The forwards on both sides worked like Trojan, and Woods, the great cricketer and being of use, turning to the labour disputes in this country, he said that these trade unions were in no way to be deprecated. He admitted the perfect liberty of the working men to unite, but held that the co-operative of that was the right note to unite. He also alluded to the eight hours question, remarking that if they gave up the present principle of non-interference with adult labour, if they went past the Rubicon which separated them from the domain of Socialism, they would part with their commercial and industrial supremacy.

Gregor McGregor, another great cricketer, and also an international footballer, put in most sensational piece of play for Cambridge in the last minute of the game. Staying in the Oxford rush in his own twenty-five, he picked neatly up and dashed clear through the opposing forwards, and was galloping down the field before the Dark Blues were fully alive to the danger. He was in the act of losing the match after having the best of it. McGregor pursued his career unchecked until he was well within the Oxford twenty-five, when, doubting his ability to elude Cowlishaw, he threw the ball back, but instead of one of his own side getting it, it fell into the hands of a Cambridge player, who sprinted away out of danger.

Sunderland rather disappointed me by not disposing of Rotts offhand. I am told the game was one of the best ever seen in a cup tie. Sunderland promised great things in the early part of the match, but their brilliant forwards fell to pieces and became nervous for a great portion of the second half. If they maintain their proper form all through, they should have no very great difficulty in winning when the tie is replayed next Wednesday.

The Blackburn Rovers, as they have so many times done before, rose to the occasion and defeated West Bromwich Albion, although by but the smallest margin.

The game at the Oval, in which Royal Arsenal asserted a better right than Clapton to enter the final for the London Cup, was a rough and tumble affair, scarcely worthy of the name of football.

Considering the enormous field for the Junior Southern Counties Cross-country Championship this year, the executive may be congratulated on its successful termination. The course was much more clearly kept than on the preceding Saturday, when the seniors were running, and taken altogether, the arrangements were as near as possible, perfection. With upwards of 300 men competing, and no fewer than twenty-seven clubs' interests at stake, the actual result was a very open question.

As regards C. E. Willers and A. A. Griffin, the first and second men home, it can only be said that they are quite good enough for the seniors any day, but are still a long way from being in the winning form. This may sound an illogical rule, but as I have before pointed out, there are reasons for its existence.

Whittick's defeat was due to want of condition. He had a wan and weary look from start to finish, which augured ill for his performance. It was not until the final point that he began to show some of his old form, but he was too late, and his own when at his best, but he was left in the rear by a couple of coming cracks there can be no question.

Parry's victory over Morton in the Northern Counties' championship need occasion no surprise. Their order will likely be maintained, as it was in the National. The result was a very good one, and the Corinthians showed both speed and cleverness, and there is no shadow of a doubt that Nick is a thoroughly sound all-round player.

The match at Richmond last Monday, in which Preston North End and the Corinthians were the contestants, whilst not so brilliant an exposition of the dribbling code as have been some of the previous games between these teams, was yet interesting and exciting as any that has been played.

The match at Richmond last Monday, in which Preston North End and the Corinthians were the contestants, whilst not so brilliant an exposition of the dribbling code as have been some of the previous games between these teams, was yet interesting and exciting as any that has been played.

Neither Corinthians nor Preston North End were up to their full strength, and it was curious to see that grand full-back, N. J. Ross, play inside right for the first time. The result was a very good one, and the Corinthians showed both speed and cleverness, and there is no shadow of a doubt that Nick is a thoroughly sound all-round player.

Speaking of the Oxford and Cambridge Association match, I may remark that it once more demonstrated how difficult it is to foretell the result of matches between the "Varsities," and to a somewhat lesser extent the same remark applies to the Rugby match on Tuesday. In both cases, Cambridge appeared to have the stronger team, yet in the Rugby instance were the Light Blues successful.

From the spectators' point of view both matches were disappointing, although there could be no gainsaying the keenness of the rivalry between the two teams. The Rugby match was a very good one, and the Corinthians showed both speed and cleverness, and there is no shadow of a doubt that Nick is a thoroughly sound all-round player.

Once more representatives of the two Universities did battle on Tuesday at the same venue with fifteen a side. Yet to other than extreme partisans the play could not be called interesting. The game was one long series of scrummages, and it was simply a question of which team was the best at scrummaging.

A King's Lynn butcher has been fined £20 and costs for sending to the London Meat Market the carcass of a sheep which had suffered from lung disease of long standing.

LORD SALISBURY ON THE LABOUR DISSENT.

Lord Salisbury speaking on Wednesday night at the annual dinner of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, referred to the Protectionist tendency in France and America, and pointed out the impossibility of any remonstrance from the English Government being of use. Turning to the labour disputes in this country, he said that these trade unions were in no way to be deprecated. He admitted the perfect liberty of the working men to unite, but held that the co-operative of that was the right note to unite. He also alluded to the eight hours question, remarking that if they gave up the present principle of non-interference with adult labour, if they went past the Rubicon which separated them from the domain of Socialism, they would part with their commercial and industrial supremacy.

MALAYAN PILOPERS AND THE QUEEN.

As the Queen was driving up to the entrance of Buckingham Palace, on Tuesday, a party of twelve Malays, under the charge of Mr. Wheatley, agent of a firm of colonial merchants, were standing in the street in order to obtain a view of her Majesty. The Queen gave orders to Chief-Inspector Goldring to take the name of the person in charge of them; and the result was that on Wednesday morning the party were commanded to attend at the palace. On arrival they were received by Sir Henry Ponsonby, and at once had an audience with the Queen. In answer to her inquiries they said they were on their way from Cape Town to Mecca, and that they had come to see London. The Queen, after talking to them for about ten minutes, gave orders that they were to be shown over the palace. This was done, and they afterwards left, highly gratified at the interest which the Queen had taken in them. The party, which consisted of six men, five women, and one child, leave London next week for the East.

PERSONATING A STUDENT.

At the recent entrance examinations in Calcutta, a young student calling himself Kishor, observed to be getting through his questions with a degree of skill and tact that aroused suspicion. For four days—that is from Monday, February 2nd, until the following Thursday—he had carried all before him, when an anonymous letter received by Mr. Nash, the officiating registrar, suggested an inquiry, which soon threw light on the matter. Confronted with a teacher from the General Assembly's Institution, the pretended Kishor fell on his knees and confessed that he was not Kishor, but one Roy, who for a few twenty rupees had undertaken to personate Kishor, and win the pass for him. He was able to accomplish, as he had passed with credit the same examination two years ago. Warrants have been issued both against Kishor and his double. There is, it is said, reason to believe that personation of this sort has become a kind of profession, and that it is hard for Europeans to detect the fraud.

BRITISH SAILORS ILL-TREATED.

On the arrival of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company's ship, the Potomac, at Plymouth, Mr. Trahair, of St. Just, Cornwall, the third officer, gave a graphic account of the present position of affairs in Chile. When the ship arrived at Valparaiso, Mr. Trahair went ashore in charge of a lighter filled with barter. On leaving the port he was met by a crowd of sailors, who were in the middle of a riot. He was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception, and was taken to the Corral, a prison open to the sky, where there were prisoners of every description. Here they met Captain Holbrook of Portsmouth, commander of the Chilean steamer Tacapal, who had been arrested for passing to the shore and from his room without leave. Mr. Trahair complained in strong terms of the treatment meted out to him, and he was subjected to a very rough reception,

COFFEE HOUSE. Double-fronted; good.

1944, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1948, 1949, 1950, 1951, 1952, 1953, 1954, 1955, 1956, 1957, 1958, 1959, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964, 1965, 1966, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971, 1972, 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976, 1977, 1978, 1979, 1980, 1981, 1982, 1983, 1984, 1985, 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994, 1995, 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024, 2025, 2026, 2027, 2028, 2029, 2030, 2031, 2032, 2033, 2034, 2035, 2036, 2037, 2038, 2039, 2040, 2041, 2042, 2043, 2044, 2045, 2046, 2047, 2048, 2049, 2050, 2051, 2052, 2053, 2054, 2055, 2056, 2057, 2058, 2059, 2060, 2061, 2062, 2063, 2064, 2065, 2066, 2067, 2068, 2069, 2070, 2071, 2072, 2073, 2074, 2075, 2076, 2077, 2078, 2079, 2080, 2081, 2082, 2083, 2084, 2085, 2086, 2087, 2088, 2089, 2090, 2091, 2092, 2093, 2094, 2095, 2096, 2097, 2098, 2099, 2100, 2101, 2102, 2103, 2104, 2105, 2106, 2107, 2108, 2109, 2110, 2111, 2112, 2113, 2114, 2115, 2116, 2117, 2118, 2119, 2120, 2121, 2122, 2123, 2124, 2125, 2126, 2127, 2128, 2129, 2130, 2131, 2132, 2133, 2134, 2135, 2136, 2137, 2138, 2139, 2140, 2141, 2142, 2143, 2144, 2145, 2146, 2147, 2148, 2149, 2150, 2151, 2152, 2153, 2154, 2155, 2156, 2157, 2158, 2159, 2160, 2161, 2162, 2163, 2164, 2165, 2166, 2167, 2168, 2169, 2170, 2171, 2172, 2173, 2174, 2175, 2176, 2177, 2178, 2179, 2180, 2181, 2182, 2183, 2184, 2185, 2186, 2187, 2188, 2189, 2190, 2191, 2192, 2193, 2194, 2195, 2196, 2197, 2198, 2199, 2200, 2201, 2202, 2203, 2204, 2205, 2206, 2207, 2208, 2209, 2210, 2211, 2212, 2213, 2214, 2215, 2216, 2217, 2218, 2219, 2220, 2221, 2222, 2223, 2224, 2225, 2226, 2227, 2228, 2229, 2230, 2231, 2232, 2233, 2234, 2235, 2236, 2237, 2238, 2239, 2240, 2241, 2242, 2243, 2244, 2245, 2246, 2247, 2248, 2249, 2250, 2251, 2252, 2253, 2254, 2255, 2256, 2257, 2258, 2259, 2260, 2261, 2262, 2263, 2264, 2265, 2266, 2267, 2268, 2269, 2270, 2271, 2272, 2273, 2274, 2275, 2276, 2277, 2278, 2279, 2280, 2281, 2282, 2283, 2284, 2285, 2286, 2287, 2288, 2289, 2290, 2291, 2292, 2293, 2294, 2295, 2296, 2297, 2298, 2299, 2300, 2301, 2302, 2303, 2304, 2305, 2306, 2307, 2308, 2309, 2310, 2311, 2312, 2313, 2314, 2315, 2316, 2317, 2318, 2319, 2320, 2321, 2322, 2323, 2324, 2325, 2326, 2327, 2328, 2329, 2330, 2331, 2332, 2333, 2334, 2335, 2336, 2337, 2338, 2339, 2340, 2341, 2342, 2343, 2344, 2345, 2346, 2347, 2348, 2349, 2350, 2351, 2352, 2353, 2354, 2355, 2356, 2357, 2358, 2359, 2360, 2361, 2362, 2363, 2364, 2365, 2366, 2367, 2368, 2369, 2370, 2371, 2372, 2373, 2374, 2375, 2376, 2377, 2378, 2379, 2380, 2381, 2382, 2383, 2384, 2385, 2386, 2387, 2388, 2389, 2390, 2391, 2392, 2393, 2394, 2395, 2396, 2397, 2398, 2399, 2400, 2401, 2402, 2403, 2404, 2405, 2406, 2407, 2408, 2409, 2410, 2411, 2412, 2413, 2414, 2415, 2416, 2417, 2418, 2419, 2420, 2421, 2422, 2423, 2424, 2425, 2426, 2427, 2428, 2429, 2430, 2431, 2432, 2433, 2434, 2435, 2436, 2437, 2438, 2439, 2440, 2441, 2442, 2443, 2444, 2445, 2446, 2447, 2448, 2449, 2450, 2451, 2452, 2453, 2454, 2455, 2456, 2457, 2458, 2459, 2460, 2461, 2462, 2463, 2464, 2465, 2466, 2467, 2468, 2469, 2470, 2471, 2472, 2473, 2474, 2475, 2476, 2477, 2478, 2479, 2480, 2481, 2482, 2483, 2484, 2485, 2486, 2487, 2488, 2489, 2490, 2491, 2492, 2493, 2494, 2495, 2496, 2497, 2498, 2499, 2500, 2501, 2502, 2503, 2504, 2505, 2506, 2507, 2508, 2509, 2510, 2511, 2512, 2513, 2514, 2515, 2516, 2517, 2518, 2519, 2520, 2521, 2522, 2523, 2524, 2525, 2526, 2527, 2528, 2529, 2530, 2531, 2532, 2533, 2534, 2535, 2536, 2537, 2538, 2539, 2540, 2541, 2542, 2543, 2544, 2545, 2546, 2547, 2548, 2549, 2550, 2551, 2552, 2553, 2554, 2555, 2556, 2557, 2558, 2559, 2560, 2561, 2562, 2563, 2564, 2565, 2566, 2567, 2568, 2569, 2570, 2571, 2572, 2573, 2574, 2575, 2576, 2577, 2578, 2579, 2580, 2581, 2582, 2583, 2584, 2585, 2586, 2587, 2588, 2589, 2590, 2591, 2592, 2593, 2594, 2595, 2596, 2597, 2598, 2599, 2600, 2601, 2602, 2603, 2604, 2605, 2606, 2607, 2608, 2609, 2610, 2611, 2612, 2613, 2614, 2615, 2616, 2617, 2618, 2619, 2620, 2621, 2622, 2623, 2624, 2625, 26

$40.000 - CONVENTION PRICES WITH 1000 sq. ft. central air conditioning south facing, 1000 sq. ft. living room south, 1000 sq. ft. kitchen, 1000 sq. ft. bath
 1000 sq. ft. garage, 1000 sq. ft. porch
 1000 sq. ft. lawn, 1000 sq. ft. trees
 1000 sq. ft. driveway, 1000 sq. ft. parking
 1000 sq. ft. lot, 1000 sq. ft. view
 1000 sq. ft. location, 1000 sq. ft. time
 1000 sq. ft. money, 1000 sq. ft. love

SOUND, INSIDE & OUTDOOR, OVER DETACHED FAMILY RESIDENCE in position; must include 1000 sq. ft. lot
 1000 sq. ft. garage, 1000 sq. ft. porch
 1000 sq. ft. lawn, 1000 sq. ft. trees
 1000 sq. ft. driveway, 1000 sq. ft. parking
 1000 sq. ft. lot, 1000 sq. ft. view
 1000 sq. ft. location, 1000 sq. ft. time
 1000 sq. ft. money, 1000 sq. ft. love

FOR COUNTRY OF HOUSE in 1000 sq. ft. lot, 1000 sq. ft. view
 1000 sq. ft. location, 1000 sq. ft. time
 1000 sq. ft. money, 1000 sq. ft. love
 1000 sq. ft. lot, 1000 sq. ft. view
 1000 sq. ft. location, 1000 sq. ft. time
 1000 sq. ft. money, 1000 sq. ft. love

CAREY SIX ROOM HOUSE, BRICK, on city station; in good repair; always in the best of condition. Call on Mr. Carey and lot. At weekly, lowest price, $750.00 per annum; long lease, at $25 each year, with option to buy at $1000.00 per cent. Address, Owner, Mr. Martin Brighton.

NOBLE CORNERS AND STOUT FLOOR on city station, long lease, or rent, for nearly 40 years, price at $1200; cash offer, $1000.00. Call on Mr. Carey and very many fully-furnished houses. Apply only at Mr. MONTAGNE's, 11, Green Street, Brighton.

NEAR Beckenham—HEADSTRIK FARMER owner, stabling and garden, modern house, with all the latest valuations about
—Apply, Mr. MONTAGNE.

CAREY C—Compass FREE REBROUDED street, blessed; long valuable lease, for the purpose of a business, at $1000.00
Holloway-road.

E70 CAREY—FULLY-FURNISHED house, with all the latest valuations about good trade; long lease; rent $40.—Apply, Mr.
MONTAGNE, Holloway-road.

MONTAGNE, LEWIS and MONTAGNE, NORTON and MONTAGNE, 11, Green Street, Brighton.

[illegible]

Messrs. M. T. DUGAN and Devoishire Chambers, 18, Bishopsgate-st.,
E300.—CIGAR STORES, with Post office, near St. Paul's Church, offering over £200 per annum; expenses low; well fitted very convenient; under ladies' management.
Apply money.

E125.—(DAIRY) doing 7 hares daily daily; 650 weekly eggs, better than commanding corner shop, market fitted, 10 rooms.

E260 (Including Good Stocks).—GLEANING
lin. trade CD weekly; well-fitted new home.

E145 (Stock Included).—CONFECTIONERY
having suburban station; full-price £4 weekly; machine-fitted shop, 7 rooms.

THE MART, 463, New Cross-road, S.E. 13.
EVERY CLASS OF BUSINESS SPEEDILY
 No Sale, no Charge. Call or write at or

THE MART, 463, New Cross-road, S.E. 13.
NOBLE INN; 4 acres window, garfully furnished, crops, live stock; trade £600

THE MART, 463, New Cross-road, S.E. 13.
VILLAGE PUBLIC nice home, 3 acres rare and modern, main road, view

THE MART, 463, New Cross-road, S.E. 13.
VILLAGE BEERHOUSE; rent £3, 10 outhouses, 1½ acres land; main road, heavy

THE MART, 463, New Cross-road, S.E. 13.
SEVEN COUNTRY PUBLIC and

THE MAZE, New Cross road, S.E.
BREWERY TAP, 8c.; capital house and ready milling; no lease; open till Monday.

RUSSELL, Value, 161, Canton-road,
PUBLIC, close market town, Burma;
rent £125, excellent trade; stable accommodation; bargain—R098, above.

GARDINER'S AND CARLTON'S, large town, Victoria, Australia; poultry and capital house, 2 rooms, large garden, 2 acres rent £75, cash sale—R098, above.

COUNTY BURN, near distant out, 2 cows, living, trade; rent £125, cash sale—R098, above.

MENKHOUGH'S AND PRUTHIER'S,
large town, Victoria, Australia; poultry, lease; exceptional trade; splendid shop,
open till Monday.

[illegible][illegible][illegible]

FOR SALE.

FARMHOLD LAND for SALE with prices from $200; easy
 terms. —PABBINGHAM

[illegible]

(part).—th, Stoke Newington-road, Dalston.

SALE—(CONTINUED).

DIAMONDS. A professional lady will sell her diamond jewelry, including a pair of earrings, a necklace, and a brooch, all of the highest quality. The diamonds are all of the first water, and the jewelry is in perfect condition. The sale will take place on Sunday, March 8th, at 10 o'clock, at the residence of the lady, 10, St. James's Place, London. The jewelry is offered at a very low price, and is a rare opportunity for those who are interested in diamonds.

DIAMONDS. A professional lady will sell her diamond jewelry, including a pair of earrings, a necklace, and a brooch, all of the highest quality. The diamonds are all of the first water, and the jewelry is in perfect condition. The sale will take place on Sunday, March 8th, at 10 o'clock, at the residence of the lady, 10, St. James's Place, London. The jewelry is offered at a very low price, and is a rare opportunity for those who are interested in diamonds.

ACCIDENTS.

ALL TIMES IN ALL PLACES. RAILWAY PASSENGERS ASSURANCE CO. ESTABLISHED 1825. CAPITAL £1,000,000. W. J. MANNING, Secretary. A. J. MANNING, Secretary.

PRUDENTIAL ASSURANCE COMPANY, Limited. OFFICE: HOLBORN, LONDON, E.C. INVESTED FUNDS KEPT—£1,000,000. INCOME, 1890, £100,000. INDUSTRIAL BRANCH—£100,000. ORDINARY BRANCH—£100,000. CLAIMS PAID—£100,000. INDUSTRIAL BRANCH—£100,000. ORDINARY BRANCH—£100,000. Every description of Life Assurance business transacted.

MONEY LENT—£25 to £1000.

LOANS WITHOUT SECURITY. £25 to £1000. On personal or other security, free of deduction, on the following terms:—
£25 to £50, 10% per month.
£50 to £100, 12% per month.
£100 to £250, 15% per month.
£250 to £500, 18% per month.
£500 to £1000, 20% per month.

THE LONDON AND WESTMINSTER LOAN CO., Limited. 10, Abchurch Lane, London, E.C. 4. A. J. MANNING, Secretary.

SPRING DRESSES.

LAST NEW WEARABLE. STUNNING RAINCOATS. MARVELLOUS SLEEVES. FULL DRESS LENGTH FOR 10s. 6d. SPECIAL VALUE DURING THIS MONTH. NEW COLOURS FOR SPRING. A. J. MANNING, Secretary.

HOUSEHOLD REMOVALS.

THE UNITED KINGDOM AND CONTINENT. H. D. SON'S. FIRE-PROOF DEPOSITORIES. FURNITURE ON EASY TERMS. FURNISH ON THE CREDIT SYSTEM. FURNISH ON THE CREDIT SYSTEM. FURNISH ON THE CREDIT SYSTEM.

WATCHES—IN BANKRUPTCY.

WATCHES—IN BANKRUPTCY. B. BENNETT, Practical Watchmaker. 10, St. James's Place, London. B. BENNETT, Practical Watchmaker. 10, St. James's Place, London.

BALM OF BETHESDA.

BALM OF BETHESDA. CURE FOR RHEUMATISM. B. BENNETT, Practical Watchmaker. 10, St. James's Place, London.

APARTMENTS.

APARTMENTS. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MISCELLANEOUS. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

FREE GRANTS OF LAND.

FREE GRANTS OF LAND. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

THE "EXCELSIOR" ENLARGED OIL.

THE "EXCELSIOR" ENLARGED OIL. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

THE "EXCELSIOR" ENLARGED OIL.

THE "EXCELSIOR" ENLARGED OIL. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

THE "EXCELSIOR" ENLARGED OIL.

THE "EXCELSIOR" ENLARGED OIL. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

THE "EXCELSIOR" ENLARGED OIL.

THE "EXCELSIOR" ENLARGED OIL. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

THE "EXCELSIOR" ENLARGED OIL.

THE "EXCELSIOR" ENLARGED OIL. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

PUBLICATIONS.

PUBLICATIONS. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

PUBLICATIONS.

PUBLICATIONS. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

PUBLICATIONS.

PUBLICATIONS. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

PUBLICATIONS.

PUBLICATIONS. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

PUBLICATIONS.

PUBLICATIONS. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

PUBLICATIONS.

PUBLICATIONS. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

PUBLICATIONS.

PUBLICATIONS. 10, St. James's Place, London. 10, St. James's Place, London.

